Well then – Let's ----

N the days when we were little tads
My, wasn't Christmas dandy?
When we explored our socks at five a.m.
And gobbled tons of candy?
Somehow, that gorgeous turkey-bird
Seemed bigger then, by jing!
And to pass back twice for pudding
Was a quite expected thing.
But now, as we get older,
Things somehow aren't the same.
It just can't be mother's cooking
So there's something else to blame.
And a kindly spirit whispers,
As we think the question through:
"It isn't pie or turkey, son;
But it's something changed in you.
And all you staid and grown-up folk
Who seem to think you're wise,
And look on Christmas happ'nings
With sophisticated eyes,
Could have a really glorious time
If you would only --- when
The Christmas time rolls 'round once more---
Be boys and girls again.

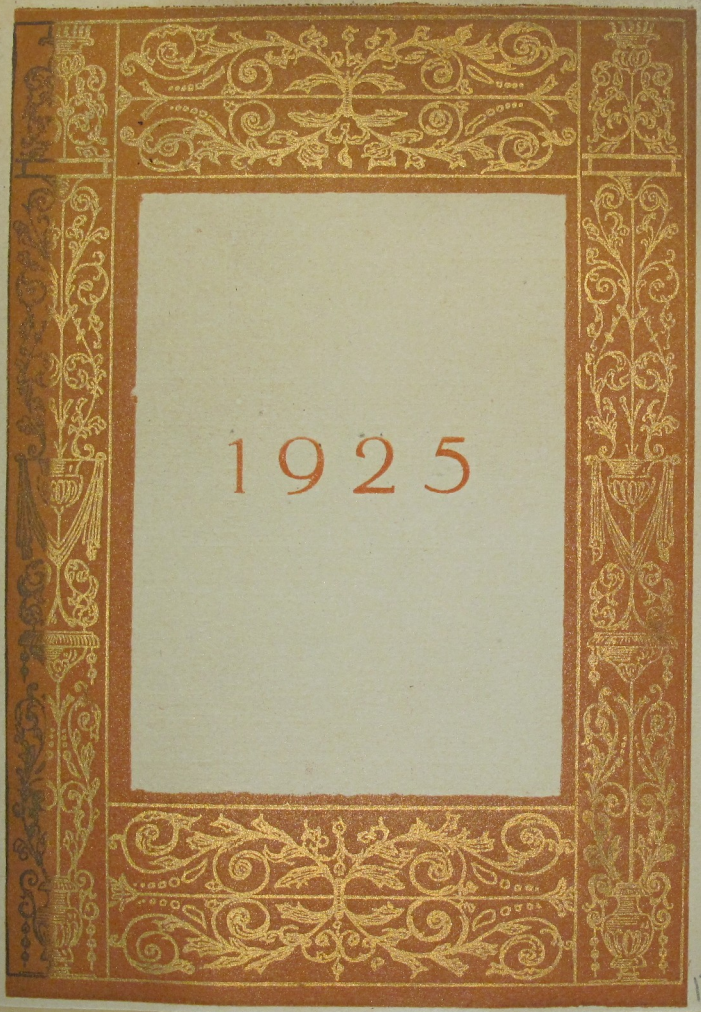

Well then – let's....

Carrying the heartiest wishes

NOTES

A Christmas Greeting

18.1

The sun goes down in a blaze of glory,
The moon comes up in a silver light,
The stars are old as the Christmas Story,
They shine on us as they shone that night
We never have heard that angel-choir,
We never have seen their fluttering wings,
But God has given us friends and Christmas,
And many radiant beautiful things!
